Welcome to Wuikinuxv Territory

Encompassing Rivers Inlet and Owikeno Lake on BC's Central Coast, Wuikinuxv Territory extends from the rugged coast at Calvert Island to the mountainous inland watersheds that feed those large water bodies.

For countless generations, the Wuikinuxv people have used abundant Western Redcedar in the region's great forests to build Big Houses, totem poles and ocean-going and river canoes. Their communities thrived on plentiful natural resources, including salmon that travel up the inlets and rivers to spawn.

Protecting Our Homeland

Wuikinuxv ancestors taught each successive generation that the "land is our responsibility"—a foundational ethic that led directly to our community-based Wuikinuxv Guardian Watchmen program.

With dedicated staff and resources, we help monitor and protect important cultural and ecological resources that are critical to the health and well-being of the Wuikinuxy people.

Land and Marine Monitoring

Wuikinuxv Guardian Watchmen patrol our territory on a regular basis, and monitor the impacts of human activities, such as fishing, logging and tourism.

We record what we see, including wildlife, vessel traffic, fishing activity and impacts on cultural sites. Our observations are collected, stored and analyzed using the Coastal First Nations' Regional Monitoring System. Data are collected in a standard way along the coast and we do regional assessments of the health of ecosystems that are important to us both ecologically and culturally.

We also conduct regular population assessments of important species, such as crab, seaweed and grizzly bears, and monitor flow and species composition of local rivers and estuaries.

About the Wuikinuxv Nation

The Wuikinuxv Nation has existed here for more than 10,000 years, and these lands and resources are as important to us as the air we breathe. Before European contact, we had established a much larger nation along the Pacific Coast, having built a complex and well-organized society.

Fishing has always been a great source of wealth and a major influence on Wuikinuxv culture, although salmon populations have dropped dramatically over the last century due to industrial-scale commercial fisheries. We have seen the effects of this over-harvesting and neglect first-hand, which is why we are demanding a greater say in how the resources are managed in our territory.

Coastal First Nations

An Alliance in Stewardship

The Wuikinuxv Nation is a part of Coastal First Nations - Great Bear Initiative—an alliance of nine First Nations along BC's North and Central Coasts and Haida Gwaii.

Although each Nation has its own distinct territory, governance and culture, our territories are found within the Great Bear Rainforest—one of the largest temperate coastal rainforest systems left on Earth. After decades of industrial logging and over-fishing in our territories, we collectively vowed to create a new conservation-based economy in our territories.
